Miss Susan Wymar.

Miss Susan Wymar, teacher in the Richmond school, Chicago, Ill., writes the following letter to Dr. Hartman regarding Pe-ru-na. She says: "Only those who have suffered as I have, can know what a blessing it is to be able to find relief in Pe-ru-na. This has been my experience. A friend in need is a friend indeed, and every bottle of Pe-ru-na I ever bought proved a good friend to me."—Susan Wymar.

Mrs. Margaretha Dauben, 1214 North Superior St., Racine City, Wis., writes: "I feel so well and good and happy now that pen cannot describe it. Pe-ru-na is everything to me. I have taken several bottles of Pe-ru-na for female complaint. I am in the change of life and it does me good." Pe-ru-na has no equal in all of the irregularities and emergencies peculiar to women caused by pelvic catarrh.

Address Dr. Hartman, Columbus, O., for a free book for women only.

NASH BY OVER 30,000

The Republican Candidate Elected Governor.

JONES HAD ABOUT 100,000 VOTES.

It Seems to Have Come Largely From the Democratic Ranks—Republicans Also Have a Majority of the Legislature—Mill Succeeds Danford.

COLUMBUS, O., Nov. 8.—The returns showed that the Democratic gains in Cincinnati, Cleveland and Toledo were reduced and that McLean was likely third at Cleveland and possibly at Toledo, in which cities, Jones drew much more heavily from the Democrats than the Republicans. At the same time time the Republican net gains outside of Cincinnati, Cleveland and Toledo were increassng at such a rate as to indicate a plurality of from 30,000 to 40,000 for for Judge Nash for governor and the entire Republican state ticket, including a majority of the legislature.

The full Republican ticket elected follows:

For governor—GEORGE K. NASH of Franklin

For Lieutenant governor—JOHN A. CALDWELL of Hamilton.

For judge of supreme court—W. Z. DAVIS of Marion.

For attorney general—JOHN M. SHEETS of Putnam.

For state treasurer—I. B. CAMERON of Columbiana.

For state auditor—W. D. GUILBERT of Noble.

For board of public works—FRANK A. HUFFMAN of Van Wert.

For senator, Tenth district—EDWARD D. HOWARD.

Judge Nash, Republican candidate, was receiving the congratulations of his friends at the Neil House. He said: "I claim my election by at least 30,000, but I am too much engaged to give a statement of the causes or to analyze the results for the press."

The Jones vote, which will not be more than 100,000, seems to have come largely from the Democratic party.

In Lucas county, the home of "Golden Rule" Jones, where it was expected that he would cut an important figure, Judge Nash has a plurality of 2,000.

In Lorain, a great iron-working center, so heavy did Jones draw from the Democrats that in seven precincts the Republican gain was 500.

In Akron, a great manufacturing center, the same effect is noticed.

In Cleveland, the home of Hanna, Jones has achieved his only victory. He has carried both the city and county of Cuyahoga. McLean seems to have been the third man in the race there.

In Hamiltoa county, the home of George B. Cox, the Democrats have won, and there the Democrats seem to have made their only marked gains.

Here in Franklin county, the home of Judge Nash, the Republicans have rolled up the largest plurality in the history of the county.

Details as to the vote on legislature are wanting, but it is quite certain that the Republicans will control both branches. As no United States senator is to be elected the legislature is not important.

J. J. Mill, Rep., is elected to congress in the Sixteenth district, to succeed Lorenzo Danford, by about 3,000 plurality.

TOLEDO, Nov. 8.—Mayor Jones concedes his own defeat. "If my race has contributed in any way," he said, "to the success of John R. McLean, and a rebuke to the infamous Philippine policy of the administration, I feel that it has not been in vain."

CLEVELAND, Nov. 8.—Senator Hanna received the election returns at the Union club. He made the following statement:

"Under the conditions it has been a splendid Republican victory. The returns have come in so slowly that it is impossible to say just how emphatic the victory is, but it is a magnificent one. It was an indorsement of the Republican party and a splendid one. It is too soon to say that I am satisfied with the result, for we do not know certainly what the result is. But we know enough to know that it is a great victory for the party.

"The result in Cuyahoga county is not different from what was expected and was due to local conditions, which were pretty well understood before the election. The result, so far as this county is concerned, has no real significance, and, while it is not pleasant, it is not a surprise. When the returns are all in it will be possible to analyze the figures and understand all they mean, but until the returns are more complete, there is no use saying anything more than that they show a great Republican victory."

What Senator Hanna said applies only to Ohio. He refused to discuss the results in the other states and said only what he did very reluctantly.

CARRIED BY BRYANITES.

The Fusion Ticket Had Probably 10,000 Majority, Holcomb Being Chosen Judge.

LINCOLN, Neb., Nov. 8.—It is evident to both parties that Nebraska has repledged her allegiance to the fusion standard. While Republicans are not yet willing to admit defeat, early figures point that way. There has been a falling off of the vote of both parties, but while the fusionists have suffered but little the Republicans have been not less than three to a precinct.

If the present ratio is maintained, ex-Governor Holcomb and the fusion state ticket will be elected by not less than 10,000. Fusionists claim much more.

Democrats Ahead.

DENVER, Nov. 8.—Returns on straight votes so far received indicate the success of the Democratic ticket in this (Arapahoe) county. The proposition to issue city bonds for the construction of municipal water works has carried.

ADVANCE OF THE REBELS.

Wheaton's Force Probably Landed—MacArthur Has Likely Started and Lawton May Move Today.

MANILA, Nov. 8.—General Wheaton's orders were to land at or near San Fabiau, a fishing village 20 miles northeast of Dagupan. The insurgent forces there only numbered about 300 men, entrenched, whereas at Dagupan there are some thousands of insurgents and five miles of strong trenches. The Mounts river is blockaded. General Wheaton is supposed to have landed, though communication with him is not expected until today. The weather has been good since he started and he should have been able to take the trenches without great loss of life.

From San Fabian General Wheaton can control the roads of escape from Tarlac to the northeast, making a junction with General Lawton. General MacArthur was expected to begin his advance toward Tarlac last night. General Lawton probably will resume his advance today, though in the face of great difficulties, rains in that district having destroyed all the bridges in the vicinity, including several the engineers built for the movement. General Lawton had been working hard for several days to get rations forward. The Thirty-fifth regiment is to reinforce him today.

A force of 300 insurgents attacked the Fourth cavalry, making three futile charges and losing three men, the Americans lost none.

The first raft across the ferry, at Cabanatuan was carried away by the swift current. It had 16 men of the Third cavalry on board with their horses. One of them was drowned.

CLAIMED BY BOTH SIDES.

Taylor Predicted to Have Carried Kentucky by From 10,000 to 15,000 Majority.

FRANKFORT, Ky., Nov. 8.—Former Senator Blackburn sent the following telegram to W. J. Bryan:

"We have carried Kentucky by a small but safe majority. Sincere congratulations upon your splendid victory in Nebraska."

LOUISVILLE, Nov. 8.—Later returns tend to confirm the Republican claims of victory, and while the majority will not reach their estimated figure, the returns received up to 1 o'clock continue to show Republican gains, and a plurality of 7,600 is conceded by many of the Democratic leaders, while some of the more faithful are claiming a plurality of 5,000 for Goebel.

LOUISVIDLE, Nov. 8.—Chairman Long of the Republican campaign committee claimed that General Taylor has carried the state by from 10,000 to 15,000 majority. He says that Taylor has carried the Third, Fourth, Fifth, Ninth and Eleventh congressional districts, while the Eighth and Tenth are close.

The Republicans have made heavy gains in most all of the Democratic strongholds waich were expected to give Goebel large majorities. Chairman Long claims the Republicans have carried the city of Louisville by from 3,000 to 5,000 majority.

TROOPS CALLED OUT IN LOUISVILLE.

Inspectors Appointed by a Judge Alleged to Have Been Refused Admission to Inspect Counts.

LOUISVILLE, Nov. 8.—Colonel C. C. Mengel received orders from Governor Bradley to send to the polls at once the Louisville Legion, which had been under arms at it's armory all day in readiness for a call. Up to this time the election had been one of the quietest ever known here. A few arrests for alleged interference with voters were made, but there was less than the usual amount of friction between the workers of the respective candidates. When the polls closed at 4 o'clock the inspector representing the interests of the Brown ticket appeared and demanded admittance to watch the count.

This was done under a mandatory injunction issued by Judge Toney of the circuit court, shortly before noon, restraining the city authorities and officers of election from interfering with the Brown inspectors. About the middle of the afternoon the Republicans secured a similar order for their inspectors on representations that they were threatened with interference.

In a number of places the inspectors were refused recognition and Governor Bradley's order for troops to go to the polls was made upon a statement by Judge Toney reciting this state of affairs.

The men were ready, and within a few minutes began to form about the armory. Belts were loaded up with ball cartridges and every man had his bayonet fixed.

Colonel Mengel, who was in uniform for the first time since the regiment was placed in readiness for a call, assumed command. As soon as the order became known Sheriff Bell hastened to the armory and protested against the calling out of the troops on the ground that there had been no disorder and no trouble, and that there was no occasion for action by the state authorities; that Judge Toney had not made any representations to him, the sheriff, as peace officer of the county; that there had not been any interference with his order.

Colonel Mengel replied that he was acting under instructions from Governor Bradley.

LEXINGTON, Ky., Nov. 8.—In one precinct in this city, while the count was in progress, a body of armed men, said to have come from the Republican headquarters, attempted to enforce a fair count, as they claimed. Reaching the precinct, they were met by a number of police and citizens. Firearms were brought into use and about 100 shots were fired. One negro was wounded, not seriously. The attacking party fled and no arrests have been made.

COL. BARNETT ELECTED

Republican State Ticket Won In Pennsylvania.

VOTE WAS SURPRISINGLY LIGHT.

The Head of the Ticket Received the News In Pittsburg, With Attorney General Elkin—Latter Claimed a Plurality of 125,000.

PHILADELPHIA, Nov. 8.—Estimates from all of the counties in the state indicate Barnett's (Rep.) plurality over Creasy, Dem., to be 138,483. In same counties the estimates were necessarily based on meagre information and complete returns may change the result.

PHILADELPHIA, Nov. 8.—Returns from about one-half of the 67 counties in the state indicate that the vote was the lightest polled in years. Lieutenant Colonel James E. Barnett, the Republican candidate for state treasurer was cut considerably as a result of attacks made upon his military record but the returns received indicate his election by over 100,000 plurality.

In the state the following ticket was elected: State treasurer, James E. Barnett, Rep.; supreme court judge, J. Hay Brown, Rep.; S. Leslie Mestrezat, Dem.; superior court judge, John I. Mitchell, Rep. There are two vacancies in the supreme court and each party elects one judge.

Complete returns from the 40 wards in this city give Barnett, Republican, for state treasuer, a plurality over Creasy, Democrat, of 69,407, against a plurality of 74,548 for Haywood, the Republican candidate in 1895, and a plurality of 70,953 for Beacon, Republican, in 1897. The total vote cast was 150,140 against 155,588 in 1895 and 145,047 in 1897.

Republican State Chairman Reeder said:

"Colonel Barnett's majority in the state will be 140,000. The majority in Allegheny will be about 20,000 and in the state, exclusive of Philadelphia and Allegheny, about 50,000. The other candidates will run somewhat ahead of Barnett, as the opposition within our own party has been concentrated upon Colonel Barnett."

In an interview Senator Penrose said:

"It seems to be a staunch Republican victory all along the line and a strong indorsement of the national administration. We are all gratified at the splendid indorsement of Colonel Barnett."

One congressman was elected in Pennsylvania. In the Ninth district, comprising Berks and Lehigh counties, Captain H. D. Greene, Dem., was chosen by a majority of 5,000 to succeed D. M. Ermentrout, deceased.

PITTSBURG, Nov. 8.—James E. Barnett, the head of the Republican ticket, received the news of the election in Pittsburg. Mr. Barnett was joined by R. B. Scrandrett and a few other personal friends. Later Attorney General Elkin arrived and joined the party.

Attorney General Elkin claimed a plurality in the state for Barnett of 125,000. This, he said, was a gratifying result, and exceeded the claims the Republican managers had made before the election.

"The returns we have received," he said, "indicate that Barnett's plurality will exceed that of Beacom. That of Beacom was 120,000, and I think Barnett will have at least 125,000.

PITTSBURG, Nov. 8.—Barnett will have an estimated majority of from 15,000 to 18,000 in the county. It is doubtful if he will lead the ticket.

MAZET WAS DEFEATED.

Tammany Knocked Him Out and Carried the County—Republicans Control the State Assembly.

NEW YORK, Nov. 8.—Returns from state and city as far as secured indicated that the Republicans will have about the same majority in the next assembly as in the last, the Democratic gains in this city being offset by losses in the smaller counties. In 113 assembly districts which have reported, including 29 in this city, 75 Republicans and 38 Democrats were elected. The Democrats suffered grave reverses in Erie county (Buffalo) and Chemung county, the home of ex-Senator David B. Hill. In the city elections up the state Democratic votes showed a great falling off. Buffalo, Troy and Albany gave large Republican majorities, a complete overturn. Mayor James K. McGuire, Democrat, is re-elected Mayor of Syracuse, a tribute to his personal popularity.

In the four counties of New York city the usual big Democratic majorities were rolled up, every candidate in every county being elected except Gray, Democratic candidate for recorder of Kings, against whom charges of corruption had been made.

Tammany shows no elation over the plurality of 15,000 for its New York county ticket, having expected it. The rejoicing is over the defeat of Assemblyman Robert Mazet, Republican, by Perez M. Stewart, Democrat. Mazet was the head of the assembly committee investigating municipal affairs in New York.

Democrats Carried Boston.

BOSTON, Nov. 8.—The Democrats had no difficulty in carrying the city of Boston. For the past three years the city has endorsed the Republican candidate for governor, but this year Robert Treat Paine, Jr., the Democratic nominee, received a plurality of 6,196 over W. Murray Crane, Rep. The state went Republican.

Election In New Orleans.

NEW ORLEANS, Nov. 8.—The New Orleans election passed off quietly. Paul Capdeville was elected mayor over Walter C. Flower, the incumbent, by at least 6,000 votes. The state and United States senatorship fights were involved in the contest, and the Democracy also made the issue of municipal ownership prominent.

LIKES THE PHILIPPINES.

Wheeler Thinks They Will Be Good Place For Americans—Harm of Criticism at Home.

FLORENCE, Ala., Nov. 8.—General Joe Wheeler, in a letter to Hon. W. J. Wood, of Florence, stating his views on the Philippine question, said in part:

"I am delighted with the Philippine islands. I have no doubt that a little push and energy this fall will crush out the Aguinaldo insurrection. Out of 9,000,000 of people in these islands I do not think that he has more than 20,000 soldiers and in a square fight 5,000 Americans would tear them to pieces.

"The evil features of these islands have been exaggerated to the people. Their extent is so great from north to south and the variation of the altitude is such that there is a great variety of climate and variety of productions. Americans will find this an excellent field for their energies, and the wealth producing powers of these islands under American influence will be very great.

"The action of some people in the United States in asserting that the Philippines ought to have independence does a great deal of harm and assists Aguinaldo in maintaining the insurrection, as he publishes all assertions by Americans of that character, and he tells his supporters that, if they hold out til winter, independence will be given them.

"It also has a bad effect in this—that people who are disposed to be favorable to us and who desire us to govern the islands fear to assert themselves because they know that if they should do so and the Americans should abandon them they would be in great danger of their lives, and in all probability their property would be confiscated.

MARYLAND DEMOCRATIC.

John Walter Smith Elected Governor by a Large Majority—Democrats Control Legislature.

BALTIMORE, Nov. 8.—Incomplete returns from from the city of Baltimore and meagre returns from the state indicate that the Republicans of Maryland have been overwhelmingly defeated, and that John Walter Smith, the Democratic candidate, has been elected by a majority variously estimated at from 10,000 to 15,000. There is also a reasonable certainty that the lower house of the general assembly will be Democratic by a large majority, and that the Democrats will elect enough state senators to overcome the Republican advantage among the holdover senators, thereby controlling both branches of the legislature.

The Democrats are wild with enthusiasm, while the Republicans are correspondingly depressed over the result, which they are inclined to attribute to treachery among the followers of Mayor Malster and United States Senator George L. Wellington. The latter has taken no part in the campaign and has not hesitated, since his resignation as chairman of the state central committee a few weeks ago, to predict the overwhelming defeat of the Republican party.

THE METHODIST BISHOPS.

Ended Conference at Philadelphia—Gone to Baltimore For Church Extension Meeting.

PHILADELPHIA, Nov. 8.—The final session of the semi-annual meeting of the board of bishops of the M. E. church was held behind closed doors. The conference has been in session here for eight days and much business of importance to the church was transacted.

After the session the bishops departed for Baltimore, where they will meet the general committee on church extension to assemble tomorrow morning.

A number of the prelates will remain in Baltimore over Sunday and others will return to this city to speak from local pulpits in the interest of the Freedmen's Aid cause. The entire board of bishops will meet the general committee of Freedmen's Aid and the Southern Educational society in this city in a two days' conference, beginning Nov. 10. On Nov. 15 the board will go to Washington to meet the general missionary committee.

Funeral of Monsignor Jessing.

COLUMBUS, Nov. 8.—The funeral of Monsignor Joseph Jessing occurred at the Josephinum. Monsignor Martinelli, the apostolic delegate, was the celebrant of the pontifical requiem high mass, while two sermons were delivered. The remains were placed in a vault at Mount Calvary cemetery. It was the wish of the deceased that he should finally be buried under the altar at the Josephinum, and this probably will be done.

To See an American Election.

NEW YORK, Nov. 8.—Lord Mayor Tallon of Dublin and the Hon. John E. Redmond, M. P., arrived in the city early last evening from Boston for the express purpose of seeing how an election is conducted in New York city.

AGREED TO ARBITRATE.

Three Powers So Decide as to Damages From Fighting In Samoa—King Oscar Chosen.

WASHINGTON, Nov. 8.—Assistant Secretary Hill for the United States, Mr. Tower for Great Britain and Mr. Mumm von Schwarzenstein on the part of Germany, at the state department, signed a convention providing for the adjustment by arbitration of claims of inhabitants of Samoa for damages resulting from the naval and military operations there last spring.

King Oscar II of Norway and Sweden was specified by the treaty as arbitrator.

Soldier Died From Stab Wound.

WASHINGTON, Nov. 8.—General Davis reported from Porto Rico that Private George D. Lee, Eleventh infantry, Company B, died Nov. 3 from a stab wound.

MADE FINE SORTIES.

British Not Merely on Defensive at Ladysmith.

BOERS WERE CUT TO PIECES.

A Force of Them at Tatham's Farm Practically Wiped Out—Another Successful Engagement—Believed That Railway Will Be Opened.

LONDON, Nov. 9.—The welcome dispatches from the front have rent the veil of gloom enveloping Ladysmith, showing the British garrison not merely standing on the defensive, but executing a series of brilliant sorties. Accounts from different sources agree that the laconic official description of Thursday's engagement as "an effective shelling of the Boer laager" was unduly modest. It appears that General Sir George Stewart White sent a strong force of cavalry and infantry to attack the Boers at Tatham's farm, about two miles to the northwest, near Besters, and apparently achieved a surprise, the Boers being caught on the open veldt and cut to pieces and their army captured. Encouraged by this success, General White decided to risk an even more important engagement on the following day, which was again justified by success.

Ladysmith had been isolated and a Boer force had intercepted the railway between Ladysmith and Colenso. This force on Friday had descended upon Colenso and, as shown by the dispatches from Estcourt, had compelled a hurried abandonment of Colenso and a retirement of the British to Estcourt.

General White had ascertained that the Boers were attacking Colenso, but he was not aware of the British retirement. He had determined, therefore, to attack the Boers in the rear, thus hoping to achieve the double object of drawing off an attack upon the weak garrison of Colenso and possibly of reopening communication southward.

The Boers had advanced southward until they had occupied the hills north of Fugela river and dominating Colenso on the other side of the stream. The hills slope to a plain that reaches to the banks of the Tugela.

General White's division caught the Boers in the rear and, after the hills had been shelled, the British infantry stormed the position. Meanwhile the British cavalry swept around the hills, and, as the retreating enemy descended into the plains with British tag-riders behind them and the river in front of them, they were charged by the cavalry and seem to have perished almost to a man. The British then returned to Ladysmith without coming into touch with the Colenso garrison, which had retired to Estcourt.

Sunday's dispatch from Estcourt, however, showed that an armored train had been sent back to Colenso to repair the line, and the next news may possibly be of the restoration of communication with Ladysmith.

While the British troops were thus engaged in successful endeavors to wipe out the Nicholsons Nek disaster the situation inside Ladysmith, as shown by an official dispatch from the general at Estcourt was most satisfactory, encouraging a hope that Sir George White may yet completely retrieve his shaken reputation.

Interesting news came from the channel squadron at Gibraltar, showing precautions against all eventualities almost unknown in European waters in peace time. On the way to Gibraltar the fleet spread out four miles apart and a sharp outlook was kept for suspicious craft. At Gibraltar extra sentries are posted at night at different parts of the ships with ten rounds of ball cartridges each. The small guns on the upper deck and in the fighting tops are kept ready for immediate use, the ammunition being on deck; a few men sleep at the guns, the searchlights are kept working and all boats are raised and not allowed to approach without the permission of the officer of the watch.

A DENIAL FROM GERMANY.

No Intervention Proposition Submitted by the Other Powers.

BERLIN, Nov. 8.—Regarding the alleged scheme for arbitrating the Transvaal question a semi-official statement has been issued as follows:

"Nothing whatever is known here of any common plan of action upon the part of Russia, France or Spain in the Transvaal question. In any case it must be positively stated that no such plans have been brought to the knowledge of the German government from any quarter which would therefore if it had been in the position to reject any such or similar proposition."

Was Trying to Relieve Mafeking.

CAPE TOWN, Nov. 8.—A dispatch from Kuruman, dated Friday, Nov. 3, says a dispatch rider arrived here from Mafeking that morning, and stating that Colonel Baden-Powell had captured a number of mules and horses. Fighting was continuing daily at Mafeking, and was always in favor of the garrison. Natives report that Colonel Plumer's force from Rhodesia was working its way from Rhodesia to relieve Mafeking.

The British Loss Eight.

LONDON, Nov. 8.—An official dispatch from Ladysmith, dated Monday, Nov. 6, said: "There has been a cessation of hostilities since Friday. Only one officer was killed by the Boer bombardment. The total British loss was eight killed, including Captain Knapp and Lieutenant Brabant, and 20 wounded in Thursday's and Friday's engagement. The town is well provisioned and is believed to be entirely safe."

Invaded by Boers.

DURBAN, Natal, Nov. 8.—The Boers invaded Ingwavuma, Zululand, and looted and burned the public buildings and stores. The magistrate, police and other inhabitants fled toward Eshowe.

WONDERS OF HEAVEN

THEY WILL BE REVEALED BY THE NEW TELESCOPE.

It Fulfils Expectations—Focal Length of One Hundred and Seventy-five Feet—More Money Needed to Complete the Experiments.

Professor Edward C. Pickering, director of the Harvard College Observatory, and one of America's most eminent authorities on astronomy, has in course of construction in Cambridge the longest and what he believes will be, when finished, the most powerful glass of the world.

Professor Pickering has originated some of the most useful apparatus known to science, and he believes that the success of his newest project is to be such as to have the greatest [illegible] of any instrument ever [illegible] compared to [illegible] has attended the [illegible] to the work of [illegible] of the Bruce telescope, an instrument which Professor Pickering designed, and which is the shortest telescope, as well as one of the most satisfactory for celestial photography that is to be found anywhere in the world.

The Bruce telescope is now being employed making observations in Arequipa, Peru, and Harvard College Observatory has just received from there a series of the most successful photographs of the heavens yet taken. At the observatory Professor Pickering showed the writer a plate which had just been unpacked, taken by the Bruce telescope, on which, with a surface of about fourteen by eighteen inches, the reproduction of 400,000 stars, taken at a single exposure, is visible.

Bruce Telescope Fulfils Expectations.

Professor Pickering considers the work of the Bruce telescope to have amply justified his judgment in designing it, and he expects equally satisfactory results from the long focal telescope which he has designed and which he desires to construct.

The Bruce telescope was rendered possible by the generosity of Miss Catherine W. Bruce, of New York city, who gave the Harvard observatory $50,000 for the purpose of carrying out the new ideas of Professor Pickering with reference to the construction of a telescope which should differ radically from all the accepted traditions and customs of the telescope builders of the world.

Professor Pickering explained to Miss Bruce that the construction of the telescope which he proposed to build would be only an experiment, but that he believed it would be a success, and in the interests of science she made her generous gift. The Bruce telescope was constructed at the factory of the late Alvin Clark & Son, Brookline street, Cambridge, the noted builders of telescopes and designers of lenses. It has a twenty-four-inch aperture and a total focal length of only twelve feet, the shortest of any recognized telescope yet constructed.

So much has been accomplished with the Bruce telescope that Professor Pickering is now particularly anxious to improve upon it by constructing a telescope which, it is proposed, shall have an aperture of only twelve to fourteen inches, but which shall have a focal length of approximately one hundred and seventy-five feet. The only thing which Professor Pickering regards as an obstacle standing between his desires and the accomplishment of them in the matter of building the new telescope is the question of money.

Has the Lenses Already.

Professor P[illegible] is so confident that he will be able to build the proposed new telescope that he has already purchased a blank disk of glass from Paris, the lenses which he intends to put into the new instrument, and the [illegible] of this blank disk alone will be [illegible] The total cost of the telescope will be somewhere now to build it will not exceed $5,000 to $10,000.

The lens of the new telescope will be much smaller than that of the [illegible] telescope at the Yerkes observatory at Geneva Lake, Wis., for that is forty inches in diameter and the largest in the world, but Professor Pickering anticipates obtaining some results with the new instrument which neither the Yerkes nor any of the other famous telescopes has been able to give. The Yerkes telescope with its forty inch lenses has a total length of sixty-seven feet, the greatest yet constructed. In Paris they are building a telescope which will be in all ways greater than (as regards figures on dimensions) the Yerkes telescope, for it is to have a lens fifty inches in diameter and be something over one hundred feet in length.

The Yerkes telescope is an equatorial telescope, while the larger one, which it is expected to have ready next year, is to be a horizontal telescope, as will be the 175 foot long one which Professor Pickering has started to construct, and which he hopes to have funds to complete by some time next year, possibly in time to observe the eclipse of the sun, which is to be total in the United States at points south of Maryland.

That friend of science who provides a fund of from $5,000 to $10,000 for completing the new telescope will be honored by having the telescope named after himself, or herself, as was the case with the telescope for which Miss Bruce, of New York, gave $50,000.

As a means of showing some of the advantages to be derived from the employment of the proposed telescope, with its extreme focal length, Professor Pickering drew a comparison between what can now be done in the way of heavenly observations and photography by explaining that with the eleven inch photographic telescope with a focal length of about eighteen feet, which is now in use, the maximum diameter of a photograph which it is possible to take of the moon is only an inch and a half. Using the new photographic telescope, with a plate of the same dimensions, it would be possible to secure a photograph of the moon which would practically fill the plate, or be about eleven times as large in diameter as the one which can now be taken. In addition the larger photograph would give a wealth of detail which is impossible to be obtained by any other means.

Greater Detail Will Be Obtained.

The diameter of the lenses in the new telescope, however, will be larger than the eleven inch size now much used in the leading observatories of the world, for it will have an aperture of twelve to fourteen inches. The telescope will be placed horizontally, and the plate by clockwork. It will thus become a large horizontal photo-heliograph, and will be especially useful in photographing the fine details of the sun's surface at the time of the total eclipse of the sun, May 28, 1900. The images of the moon secured with this telescope will, it is calculated, be about a foot in diameter, and, although printed without enlargement, will far surpass the best photographs of that body yet taken.

It is also believed that surprising results can be obtained with Jupiter, Saturn and Mars, and next year it is believed that when the planet Eros again approaches the earth it will be of the highest value in solving the great problem of astronomy, the exact distance of the sun from the earth.

The focal length of the new telescope being more than one hundred times the aperture, its possibilities are almost beyond conception—certainly beyond accurate calculation—as the instrument is confidently expected to bring to light discoveries in astronomy as to which scientists have been only able to make conjectures heretofore.

Speaking of the new telescope and of telescopes generally, Professor Pickering said: "The Bruce telescope is well adapted to investigations in which the focal length is small. It will, therefore, be interesting to try the effect of a great focal length. It is proposed to build a telescope now with an aperture of twelve to fourteen inches and a focal length of 162 to 175 feet.

"This telescope would be placed horizontally. This method of mounting a telescope for use on the stars was advocated by me in 1861 and has been used here since then with successive telescopes of two, four and twelve inch apertures. The instrument now proposed would be adapted to investigations for which a great focal length would be needed, as the latter would be more than one hundred times the aperture. Several such investigations may be suggested, any one of which if successful, would amply justify the construction of the instrument.

Photographing the Sun.

"The best instrument now in use for photographing the sun, the horizontal photo-heliograph is a small instrument of this form. It is possible that under favorable atmospheric conditions, finer details on the sun's surface could be obtained with a large instrument than have yet been photographed. It would be equally useful in photographing the protuberances. Preparations must soon be made for observing the solar eclipse of May 28, 1900. This instrument might be useful in photographing the spectrum of the reversing layer, and in showing the details of the inner corona. The planet Eros approaches the earth so closely that its parallax sometimes amounts to a minute of arc. The next approach, in 1900, will be more favorable than any other until 1927. Careful preparations should, therefore, be made for observing Eros when east and west of the meridian, since the distance of the sun can probably be determined with more accuracy in this way than by any method of observation yet attempted.

The Proposed New Telescope.

Expects Astonishing Results.

It is not unreasonable to presume from Professor Pickering's guarded statements that the results which the new telescope will produce will be even greater, comparatively, than those of the eminently successful Bruce instrument.

The new telescope will be one of the wonders of the world. 100 feet longer than the great Yerkes telescope, and nearly 100 feet greater in length than the one they are building in Paris. In comparison with the twelve foot long Bruce telescope it will look as big as a thirteen-inch gun by the side of a mortar. Its range, however will be vastly greater than that of any telescope in the world, and science will, it is believed, take great strides forward through its development.

Mailed free for 5 lion heads cut from Lion Coffee wrappers and a 2-cent stamp. Made of rolled gold and with mother-of-pearl back; suitable alike for ladies and gentlemen. This shape is handy and popular.

Daisy Neck-Pin.

Genuine Hard-Enamel and Gold.

For 18 lion heads and a 2-cent stamp. The illustration is only two-thirds actual size. Color a delicate pink, with jewel setting and gold trimmings. Best enamel finish, stylish and durable.

"The Lion's Bride."

Mailed free for 12 lion heads cut from Lion Coffee wrappers and a 2-cent stamp. An unusually fine picture, from the brush of the noted German artist, Gabriel Max. It is founded on Chamisso's poem, "The Lion's Bride." The story is interesting, and we send with each picture a handsome folder, containing copy of the poem and telling all about it. Size, 15x26 inches.

"Dorothy and Her Friends."

For 8 lion heads and a 2c. stamp.

A bright, cheery picture, representing a little girl playing with her chickens and her rabbits. The predominating colors are rich reds and greens. Size, 14x28 inches.

For 10 lion heads and 2-cent stamps we will mail it framed, ready for hanging.

Stylish Belt-Buckle.

Handsomely gold-plated, with Roman finish, and set with ruby colored jewel in the center. This will be welcomed for "dressed-up" occasions by the ladies who like to wear different colored sashes. The gold-finish goes well with any of them. Given for 20 lion heads and a 2-cent stamp.

Ladies' Apron.

Made of good quality lawn, with alternate revering and tucks; broad hem at bottom, and is neatly gathered at waist; a very superior and stylish article. Size, 36x40 inches.

THE NEW BRIDGE.

City Clerk Seaman Talks on the Subject.

CITIZENS SHOULD PROTEST

Mr. Seaman Says that the City is Constantly Menaced During the Winter With an Ice Gorge—Other Railway News.

Fillings have been made on both banks of the Tuscarawas river for the new W. & L. E. pile trestle, which is to be built south of Tremont street, and the pile driver is expected to begin its work in the near future. Many people hold opinions unfavorable to allowing the construction of the new trestle, and City Clerk Seaman this morning expressed his views on the subject to an INDEPENDENT representative.

"When the W. & L. E. first laid its tracks through Massillon, some ten or twelve years ago," said Mr. Seaman, "there were serious objections raised by citizens to the building of a pile trestle across the river at this place. But the company made excuses. It said that the wooden structure was to be but temporary, and that it would be replaced by one of steel within a few years. The promise was never kept and through all these years that tottering structure has stood there an absolute menace to the traveling public. No accident has ever happened, but at the reckless rate of speed at which the bridge is crossed, there is no telling when something will occur. The lower portion of the city, too, is in constant danger from an ice gorge.

"Last winter one was threatened, but fortunately a change in weather prevented any damage. We have really had no winter, since the building of the bridge, when there has been sufficient ice on the river to cause much trouble, but we cannot tell when we will have it. When it comes and a gorge is formed at that point, the entire business portion of the city will be flooded, and untold damage may result. The company says the contemplated structure will, in time, be replaced by a steel bridge. It is the same promise made when the present one was built. If they intend to build a steel bridge soon wouldn't they patch up the old one and make it last four or five years longer? The citizens of Massillon should raise a protest regarding this constant danger being placed in their midst. If an all steel bridge is too expensive, let the company build one partly of piles, with several forty-foot spans in the middle. The danger of a gorge would then be removed."

Mr. Seaman may present the matter to the city council at this evening's meeting.

USEFUL HOUSEHOLD HINTS.

HOW TO DESTROY MOTHS IN FURNITURE.—Saturate the furniture with benzine. But be very careful not to have it in a room where there is any light or fire.

SWEATING FEET.—A safe and efficacious remedy for sweating feet is prepared chalk; rub it over the surface of the foot, the sole especially, night and morning.

HOW TO KEEP CIDER SWEET.—Sulphite of lime is now generally used to prevent continued fermentation in cider. The directions are as follows: "When the cider has fermented to suit the taste, add one-quarter ounce of sulphite of lime to each gallon, or 10 ounces to each barrel—first mixing it with cider or water to the consistency of cream. Shake the barrel well, and allow it to settle four or five days. Draw off the clear cider carefully into another barrel, and bung it tightly.

AROMATIC VINEGAR.—The following recipe makes a delightful, refreshing wash. It is invaluable in the sick room, and cools the aching head. A tablespoonful to a quart of water is about the right proportion, although more can do no harm. Bathe the patient freely, as it is very cooling. Take of rosemary, wormwood, lavender, rue, sage, and mint, an ounce of each (either dry or green will do). Place in a stone jar, and pour over it one gallon of strong cider vinegar; cover closely and keep near the fire for four days; then strain and add one ounce of pounded camphor gum. Bottle and keep tightly corked. Another mode of using it is to wash the face and hands with it before exposing one's self to any infection.

SEE ONLY IN THE DARK.

A Missouri Boy Whose Eyes Exceed Those of an Owl in Their Peculiarity.

Physicians in Columbia are much interested in the case of Stanley Shaefer, 8 years old, who lives with his parents, Mr. and Mrs. E. C. Shaefer, in this city. The child is afflicted with a most remarkable optical deformity. He can see as well in total darkness as a person with natural sight can see in the light of day. He can walk into a dark room and find in a moment a pin or any other object. Night is day for him, and day is night, for in the hours of daylight he is blind. His disposition and desires are largely influenced by his optical deformity. At night he is restless and full of life.

His parents have some difficulty in restraining his desires to play and romp about during the hours of darkness. It is difficult for them to find safe amusement for him at midnight. All his little playmates are in bed, and the boy can derive but small pleasure in his loneliness. But at times he evades his parent and takes a lonely midnight ramble. He has been heard romping about the neighborhood of his home in the middle of the darkest nights with only a dog for a companion.

Little Shaefer is a faithful student, and well advanced in his book. His teacher, however, is obliged to resort to unusual measures in instructing him. Of course, a dark room is the first essential in his reading lessons. The teacher draws down all the curtains in the room, closes the doors, and endeavors to make the room as dark as possible. Then Stanley reads.

During the daytime the child is often seen in the vicinity of his home, usually with a companion to guide him. At such times the eyes of the child are usually half closed. He gropes about like a blind person, and stumbles over the rough places unless guided by a faithful hand. When his friends greet him he knows them only by their voices.

When he concludes to read a while in the day-time, his proceedings are peculiar. After securing his book, the boy goes to a closet and takes from a hook a most remarkable contrivance. It is almost as large as the child himself—long, black, and in the shape of a funnel. Little Shaefer carries the strange device to the place desired, puts it down with the point upward, crawls under it, and reads. The design and purpose of the unique contrivance is, of course, to exclude the light.

"What on earth is that funny-looking thing over there?" said a visitor to Mrs. Shaefer the other day, pointing to the device as it sat on the porch of the Shaefer residence.

"We have no particular name for it," said Mrs. Shaefer, with a smile, "but I will show you what is under it."

She walked across the porch and quickly raised it from the floor. There sat little Shaefer learning his lessons.

The deformity of his sight is useful to him and to others in many way. His ability to find things in the dark is very convenient for his family. His father, who is a butcher, often finds employment for the child in the cooling room of the butcher shop. Little Shaefer goes into the cooling room, and after the door is closed to shut out all light, counts the pieces of meat in storage, and reports the result to his father.

The light of the sun is especially annoying to the child, and he is rather inclined to be low-spirited and unhappy on bright, sunny days. On the contrary, cloudy weather seems to relieve him and he is much more animated. The light of the sun is painful to him. He blinks and rubs his eyes, and gives other evidence of distress when in the sunlight. But not so with electric light. His eyes seem far better adapted to artificial illumination than to natural light. At times he can see to some extent under an electric light, which fact greatly encourages his parents, who have never abandoned hope of effecting a cure.

The child has been treated by many physicians and skilled occulists, but to no avail. Many kinds of glasses and spectacles have been tried, but always with unfavorable results. The fact that the eyes of the patient since birth have been in their present condition makes the case all the more difficult. He was simply born with the sense of sight, so far as light and darkness are concerned, completely reversed. If a cure is effected and his sight brought into normal condition, it will be one of the most remarkable scientific achievements of recent years.

The best of cake will be ruined by too hot an oven as quickly as by too cold an oven. The oven door should not be often opened when baking cake or pastry, for steady heat is necessary.

Ensilage on the Farm.

When ensilage began to receive attention many scientific experimenters at once attacked it, claiming that it was almost worthless, and that it did not pay for the labor bestowed upon it. The objections then made were correct, for the ensilage of that day was very different from that of the present time. There were, however, many strong advocates of ensilage, who claimed for it many advantages that its opponents would not admit. The fact was that each party formed his opinion of ensilage from his own standpoint, and it was only after farmers understood how to grow corn for ensilage was there unanimity, as it is now safe to assert that no one is at present opposed to ensilage as cattle feed.

The use of corn for ensilage gives American farmers a great advantage, as it produces a larger amount of food and at less cost than with any other material. The difficulty with those who did not favor ensilage was that they supposed it should be composed of very young fodder, full of water and in a green condition. Those who found it valuable were those who allowed the corn to grow to maturity, cutting it just as the ears began to glaze, by so doing allowing the crop to reach that stage in which it has derived from the soil as much nourishment as possible, and also arresting in the stalk the elements that were on their way to complete the seeds. The very young corn, on the contrary, was composed so largely of water as to render it of but little value, and when cut at such an early stage of growth did not fulfill the expectations of those who relied upon it as an important adjunct to dairying.

As an acre of corn for ensilage produces an enormous amount of succulent food, and at the lowest possible cost, it will be found valuable in many ways. It is not best to feed it exclusively, for animals thrive better on a variety, but it affords succulent food in winter of a very nourishing character, and thereby not only promotes digestion and thrift, but increases the flow of milk and lessens the amount of hay and grain required. The dairyman who has a silo filled with ensilage can feed his stock at less cost, will secure a larger product, and can sell at a lower price, with greater profit than can the farmer who feeds on dry food. That ensilage is now regarded as a staple food is shown not only by its advocates, but also by the fact that all of its enemies have vanished from sight, and it is now unopposed.

From Mrs. Gunter to Mrs. Pinkham.

[LETTER TO MRS. PINKHAM NO. 76,244]

"One year ago last June three doctors gave me up to die, and as I had at different times used your Vegetable Compound with good results, I had too much faith in it to die until I had tried it again. I was apparently an invalid, was confined to my bed for ten weeks. (I believe my trouble was ulceration of womb).

"After taking four bottles of the Compound and using some of the Liver Pills and Sanative Wash, at the end of two months I had greatly improved and weighed 155 pounds, when I never before weighed over 138. Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound is the best medicine I ever used, and I recommend it to all my friends."—MRS. ANNA EVA GUNTER, HIGGINSVILLE, Mo.

Mrs. Barnhart Enjoys Life Once More.

"DEAR MRS. PINKHAM—I had been sick ever since my marriage, seven years ago; have given birth to four children, and had two miscarriages. I had falling of womb, leucorrhœa, pains in back and legs; dyspepsia and a nervous trembling of the stomach. Now I have none of these troubles and can enjoy my life. Your medicine has worked wonders for me."—MRS. S. BARNHART, NEW CASTLE, PA.

THURSDAY, NOVEMBER 9, 1899

As has before been demonstrated, T. Harvey Smith possesses running qualities which leave him second to no one in the race for county treasurer. THE INDEPENDENT venerates the grief of Eli Motts, but bids him be of good cheer. He is only one of many defeated Democrats.

The glistening eyeglass of the newly elected prosecuting attorney of Stark county will shine anew whenever it is brought to bear upon the figures showing his substantial majority in the county, but more brightly should it gleam when the vote of his fellow citizens falls beneath its vision. As THE INDEPENDENT'S old and valued friend, Mr. Cooney has many times remarked, philosophy and jurisprudence are united in the personality of Robert H. Day, and it is probable that these and other pleasing characteristics combined to produce the splendid vote which he received in Massillon and Perry township.

For the first time in American history the President's Thanksgiving proclamation includes among citizens of the United States all our people on this continent and in our newly acquired islands and those who may be at sea or sojourning in foreign lands. Among the causes for national thanksgiving enumerated in the proclamation are freedom from pestilence, general prosperity, abundant crops, liberal wages, increased comforts, improved finances, firm credit, successful war, marked progress in Cuba, Porto Rico and the establishment of popular confidence and business activity in Luzon. If these blessings are not enough to excite the gratitude of American citizens let them wait until tomorrow and then add that the threatened extermination of peace and plenty, honest money and honorable extension of territory was averted on November 7

"After a careful look over the election system of Ohio, after going over the organization of our party and looking fairly into the organization of the opposite party, I do not believe that any wrong can be successfully brought about." Although these words were used by John Roll McLean, late Democratic candidate for governor of Ohio for the reassurance of his followers, they serve to represent with absolute fidelity the conditions which combined to bring about his defeat. Voters in the President's own state have shown that no wrong, such as that contemplated by McLean and the debauched Democracy of Ohio can be "successfully brought about." The imminent peril in which the state was placed, elevated the minds of respectable citizens above the low level of petty party and personal prejudices, causing them to forget everything for the sake of united effort against a common danger. American citizenship, but particularly Ohio citizenship, has acquired a new dignity by the results of Tuesday's balloting.

Wayne County's Election.

WOOSTER, Nov. 8.—Returns are coming in slowly from the country precincts of Wayne county, but there is no question but McLean will have a plurality of 1000. Jones will have not less than 250 votes. The Democrats elect the entire county ticket, with the possible exception of probate judge. Wells, the Democratic candidate for representative, has 800 majority.

Dalton—Nash 160; McLean 237; Jones 31. The fight was strongest on the election of probate judge, Robert Adair, D, receiving 220 and Ross W. Funck, R, 208.

Burton City—Nash 114; McLean 51; Jones 19.

Marshallville Precinct—Nash 109; McLean 147; Jones 1.

WILL SEND $2 50 FREE

To Each of Our Readers. Franklin Miles, M. D., LL. B., the Celebrated Chicago Specialist, Will Send $2 50 Worth of His New Special Treatment Free.

When an experienced physician offers to give away $10,000 worth of a New Treatment for diseases of the heart, nerves, stomach, or dropsy, it is conclusive evidence that he has great faith in it. And when hundreds of prominent men and women freely testify to his unusual skill and the superiority of his New Special Treatment his liberality is certainly worthy of serious consideration.

That Dr. Miles is one of the world's most successful physicians is proven by hundreds of testimonials from well known people. One patient cured after failure of eleven Grand Rapids physicians, two after being given up by six and seven Chicago physicians, another after nine of the leading doctors in New York City, Philadelphia and Chicago. Thousands of testimonials sent upon request.

The eminent Rev. W. Bell, D. D., of Dayton, O., General Secretary of Foreign Missions, writes editorially in The State Sunday School Union: "We desire to state that from personal acquaintance we know Dr. Miles to be a most skillful specialist, a man who has spared neither labor nor money to keep himself abreast of the great advancement of medical science." Colonel Tucker, late general manager N. Y., L. E & W. R. R., of Cleveland, states: "Dr. Miles's success as a physician has been phenomenal." Mrs. M. E England, of Cleaves, O., says: "I took Dr. Miles's New Treatment for six weeks and the results were marvelous." Mrs. M. B. Morelan, of Rogers, O., writes: "For 25 years I had heart trouble, could not get relief. Before your treatment could not raise myself out of my chair. You saved my life." Miss Josie Thompson, of Circleville, O.: "A consultation of doctors said there was no help for me. It is now four years since I took your new treatment. Have done much hard work since."

This new system of special treatment is thoroughly scientific and immensely superior to the ordinary methods.

As all afflicted readers may have $2 50 worth of treatment especially prepared for their case, free, with full directions, we would advise them to send for it at once. Address Dr. Franklin Miles, State and Adams Sts., Chicago.

A pleasant evening is promised to all who attend.

The Massillon (Ohio) INDEPENDENT sends us a copy of its "Souvenir Industrial Edition." There are forty-four four-column pages and cover, devoted exclusively to illustrations and descriptions of Massillon and its industries, no displayed advertising to interfere with the symmetry of the work. A good cut of THE INDEPENDENT'S handsome modern building serves to embellish the cover, and the whole work is well planned and executed.—The Inland Printer.

Corporal Michael Donohue, of the Seventeenth United States infantry, has opened a recruiting office in Canton, at the corner of Market and Second streets Corporal Donohue served in four engagements in the late Spanish-American war. While in Massillon this morning he stated that about 4,000 men are yet required for service at all points, to fill the full quota of the army. Able-bodied, single men of good character are preferred. On the expiration of the three years' term of enlistment, privates will be allowed $300 traveling expenses to their homes.

Mrs. Harriet Doddridge, president of the West Side Froebel Study Club, has called a meeting of that organization for Thursday afternoon to be held in the West Tremont street building after the dismissal of school. The meeting is called in response to a request of the New York League for Social Service, that the local club take some action against the seating of Brigham Roberts, the polygamist representative from Utah, in the United States house of representatives. Resolutions of protest will doubtless be adopted and a petition prepared for circulation at the meeting.

The C., L & W. engine was attached to the passenger due here at 5:50, which was making its regular stop at the station, the engine standing on the crossing. Train No. 40 was coming down the small grade west of Tremont street at a rate of speed that made it impossible to stop in time to avoid the collision. It struck No. 5 in the tender, breaking an axle and wheel, derailing it, but not otherwise injuring it to any extent. Engine No. 87 sustained a broken pilot. The crossing was blocked for several hours. Yard engine No. 12 took the train, which carried many of the Protected Home Circle excursionists, through to Cleveland.

SOLOMON BUTLER.

A Sudden Death of Heart Failure.

TAKEN SUDDENLY ILL.

He Asks a Bystander to Call a Physician, but Dies Just as He Arrives—Death Took Place in Schworm Bros,. Grocery.

Solomon Butler, aged 67 years, a well known citizen of Massillon, died suddenly of heart failure at 6:30 this morning. Mr. Butler, who resided at No. 254 Richville avenue, had started down town in the morning, apparently in his usual health. While at his East Main street fish stand he was taken suddenly ill, and asking a bystander to call a physician, hurried to Schworm Bros.' grocery, where he took a chair. Dr. T. F. Reed was called, but arrived just as Mr. Butler drew his last breath. Heart failure is ascribed as the cause of his death

Solomon Butler was born in Jackson township, north of the city, in 1833, and had lived in this vicinity all his life. His first wife, Miss Naomi Swihart, died in 1887, survived by two children, John and Milton Butler, both of whom reside in this city. In 1890 he was married to Miss Mary Fry, who also survives him. For many years Mr. Butler conducted a fish stand at 26 East Main street.

Funeral arrangements will be announced later.

FOURTH ANNUAL MEETING.

The Women's Cemetery Association Enters its Fifth Year.

The fourth annual meeting of the Massillon Women's Cemetery Association was held on Monday afternoon in the public library building. Reports for the past year were read by the president, secretary and treasurer, and the following officers were re-elected: President, Mrs. C. McC. Everhard; vice president, Mrs. Helena R. Slusser; treasurer, Mrs. Flora R. Jones; secretary, Miss B. V. R. Skinner.

The president reported a meeting of a committee from the board of cemetery trustees and one from the women's association which revised the cemetery rules already in existence and formulated others which were adopted by the board of trustees, and which will be printed in pamphlet form so that each lot owner may have a copy, and in the future cannot plead ignorance of the cemetery laws as an excuse for their violation. While the women's association has not expended any large amount upon cemetery improvements during the past year, its finances have been steadily increasing, and it is probable that plans now in contemplation will be carried out in the near future. At a meeting of the executive committee following the regular meeting, Miss Blanch McCue was re-elected chairman of the entertainment committee.

OBITUARY NOTICE.

ELIZABETH R. JAMES.

Elizabeth R. James, aged 53 years, widow of the late Abel James, died at her home in West Tremont street, after a nine months' illness, the cause of death being a cancer. Mrs. James was a native of Wales. She landed in this country in 1866, coming direct to Massillon where she has resided ever since. She is survived by four sons and two daughters, Richard, Henry, Thomas, Reese, Emma, and Mrs. Maggie Miller, all of whom live in this city. Funeral arrangements will be announced later.

TODAY'S BIG FIRE.

The Damage May Reach $250,000.

STARTED IN THE BEE HIVE

It Spread With Great Rapidity and at One Time Threatened the Destruction of the Business Portion of the City—Canton Department Here.

(From Wednesday's Daily.)

One of the most disastrous fires in the history of Massillon started in the Bee Hive building, in West Main street, at 9 o'clock this morning, and in spite of the heroic efforts of the firemen to confine the flames, wiped out the entire two hundred and twenty feet frontage of business blocks lying between Clay street and the canal. The loss cannot now be given with any reasonable certainty, but experienced people say that an estimate of $250,000 would not be excessive. The business men who were affected by the flames were Allman & Putman, F. E. Seaman, C. J. Duncan, E. M. Bevard. H. H. Pille, Frank Crone, F. H. Pille and Drs. C. C. and B. J. Miller. In all cases but little stock and effects were rescued from the flames.

The fire originated in the east display window of the Bee Hive dry goods store. Frank Cleaver was attending to decorations here, when he suddenly discovered that a large part of the bunting which had been draped was afire. How it originated Mr. Cleaver will not venture to say, but in all probability, a live electric wire was responsible. Mr. Cleaver immediately called to the other clerks of the store, and while Ernest Bittner turned in an alarm from box No. 33 on Clay street, the latter set about to extinguish the flames and remove goods. The flames spread with such rapidity through the millinery department, however, that all efforts to check them were unavailing, and employes were obliged to leave the building in haste, after having rescued about $250 worth of stock.

Cashier Perry McConnaughy had the narrowest escape of the whole force, in devotion to his employers' interests. As soon as it became evident that the flames were beyond control, he hurried to his office to save the books and the money. After placing the books and locking the latter in the safe, he secured all the money, which was kept in tin boxes, and started to grope his way out of the building. Arriving in the front part of the store, he found this means of retreat cut off by the flames. Rushing to the rear, he attempted to pass out through a rear window, only to find that iron bars blocked his escape at this point. By this time Mr. McConnaughy was almost suffocated. Fellow clerks on the outside saw his frantic efforts to break the bars, and but for their timely assistance, he could not have retained his consciousness much longer.

William Paul, one of the force of clerks, sustained a broken hand in his desperate attempts to wrest away a bar to allow Mr. McConnaughy's escape.

When hose company No. 1 arrived at the scene of the conflagration almost the entire Bee Hive building was wrapped in a mass of flames. Other hose companies in the city were immediately called, and a request for assistance was sent to Chief Leininger, of the Canton department. The latter, with a reel and engine, arrived in the city at 11 o'clock, having driven the entire distance. The firemen made strenuous efforts to save the buildings adjoining Allman & Putman's, but in vain. The frame building which hung to the rear proved an excellent avenue for the spread of the flames, and one after another the Altekruse block, occupied by F. E. Seaman's drugstore; the Kiester block, occupied by C. J. Duncan's jewelry store on the first floor, and Dr. E. M. Bevard on the second; the Pille block, occupied by H. H. Pille's shoe store, Frank Pille's tailoring establishment, Frank Crone's dry goods store, and Drs. C. C. and B. J. Miller caught fire, the occupants meanwhile saving such of their effects as they were able. The water supply was excellent, in fact, could not have been better, and during the five hours that water was thrown never failed for an instant. At one time the flames threatened to cross east of the canal, but several streams effectually checked them.

The mill building, immediately north of the Bee Hive block, was only saved by most desperate efforts. Had this building caught fire, it would have been almost impossible to save the lumber yard and plant of Conrad, Dangler & Brown.

As high as nine streams were in play at one time. Superintendent Inman stated this afternoon that from the time of the breaking out of the fire, shortly after 9 o'clock, until 1 o'clock this afternoon, 700,000 gallons of water had been pumped at the water station.

By 11 o'clock Chief Burkle had so placed his streams that danger of the flames leaping to buildings outside of the block had been entirely obviated. With the assistance of Chief Leininger and men from Canton, the walls of the Bee Hive building, which were in a tottering condition, were pulled down. Water was thrown until a late hour this afternoon. Ropes were stretched about the burning building to prevent the surging crowd from hampering the firemen in the discharge of their duties. A volunteer fireman named Leifer was overcome by heat at about 10 o'clock in the morning. He was carried to the Wilcox hotel and Dr. Dimon called. He is able to be about this afternoon.

Losers by the fire are thus far unable to make any exact estimate of their losses. The heaviest damage was sustained by Messrs. Allman & Putman. Their estimated damage is in the near vicinity of $85,000, so far as is known at present, covered by insurance. The building which the store occupied belongs partly to Messrs. Allman & Wetter and Mrs. Clara Keim, of Louisville. The two former estimate their damage at $15,000, with $12,000 insurance. Mrs. Keim's loss is $8,000. covered partly by insurance, to what extent, however, is not known, as Mr. Keim has the policies and has not been communicated with.

Henry Altekruse, of Canton, proprietor of the block in which Seaman's drug store was located, estimates his loss at $6,000, with $3,000 insurance. Mr. Seaman's damage is in the neighborhood of $3 500 or $4,000, insurance $2,200.

Mrs. M. Kiester, who owns the block occupied by C. J. Duncan's jewelry store, places her damage at $8,000, with $5,000 insurance. Mr. Duncan will not estimate his loss, stating that he is wholly unable to do so at present. A large part of his stock was saved, and considerable was stored in a fire-proof safe. Dr. Bevard, who occupied the second floor, succeeded in saving a large part of his effects, although much was destroyed. The damage he cannot estimate. There was no insurance.

H. H. Pille estimates the damage to his block at $20,000, with but $10,000 insurance. One-third of his stock of boots and shoes, valued at $18,000, was saved, and is now stored in a vacant room in the opera house block The insurance on the stock was $6,000. Frank Pille, who conducts a tailoring establishment, estimates a damage of $550, with $300 insurance.

Frank Crone's damage amounts to $30,000, with $15,000 insurance. Mr. Crone managed to rescue but a small part of his stock. This has been placed in a vacant store room in South Erie street. The office of Drs. C. C. Miller and B. J. Miller is situated above Crone's store. Their damage is $150, uninsured, belonging mostly to Dr. B. J. Miller.

The livery stable of A. Keller and the Kiehl mill, both situated in the rear of the burned block, were damaged to the extent of several hundred dollars. Mr. Keller's hay and straw were ruined by water.

BIG FIRE IN WILMOT

Started in the Postoffice Building.

WITHOUT A WATER SUPPLY

Call on the Massillon Fire Department for Aid—No Locomotive to be Had at that Hour of the Night—Origin of the Fire Unknown.

WILMOT, Nov. 8.—[Special]—The building occupied by the Wilmot postoffice and D. Smedley's furniture store caught fire in some manner at about 12:30 this morning, presumably from a stove in the postoffice. The fire is rapidly moving westward. A whole row of business places is already doomed, and fears are expressed for the safety of the entire portion of Main street west of the fire's seat of origin. A request for assistance was made to the Massillon fire department at 2 o'clock this morning, and help is expected hourly. Firemen, however, will experience some difficulty, as the town has no water supply, and there is no body of water within a short distance from the seat of the conflagration.

Later—The Massillon fire department was unable to get a train to Wilmot and was therefore unable to respond to the call for help. Citizens made heroic efforts to keep the fire from spreading. The estimated damage is as follows: D. W. Smedley, furniture dealer, loss $2,000, insurance $1,200: Mrs. Harbaugh, one building, vacant, loss $400, no insurance: one building occupied by the Wilmot Buggy Company, loss $400, no insurance; buggy company's loss on stock, $1,500, insurance $1,000: H. F. Christman, hardware, insurance on the building, $1,000, and $800 on the contents Mr. Christman's residence back of the store was also destroyed. The postoffice building was destroyed. Its contents were removed.

Output of the Klondike.

No one will ever know exactly how much gold was taken from the Klondike fields the past season. Since the English government imposed a royalty, the miners have adopted all sorts of ruses to evade the law. It is rather difficult to dodge taxes, but it is more difficult to dodge a bad cold and the grip at this time of year. When the system is weakened by such attacks, and the blood becomes thin and impoverished, the best medicine to take is Hostetter's Stomach Bitters. This remedy builds up the system. Besides regulating digestion, it overcomes constipation. It is good for the kidneys and liver, too, stimulating these organs into the proper performance of their functions. Nothing is so good for malaria.

A NARROW ESCAPE.

Mrs. A. J. Lewis Almost Ashpyxiated.

WAS FOUND UNCONSCIOUS.

A Chandelier Breaks While She is Taking a Morning Nap, the Escaping Gas Fills the Room—Was not Found Until Afternoon.

Mrs. A. J. Lewis, wife of Councilman Lewis, had a narrow escape from asphyxiation Monday. Mrs. Lewis had arisen as usual in the morning and had prepared her husband's breakfast. The latter is employed in the Corns Iron and Steel Company's plant, and left for his place of employment at 6:30.

At 9 o'clock in the morning, Mrs Thomas Nelson, of 19 Duncan street, a friend of Mrs. Lewis, went to the latter's residence, which is situated in Green street, to borrow an article. She found the door locked, however, and concluded that Mrs. Lewis was out. She found the article on the porch, however, and took it along Coming back to return it, at about 3:30 o'clock in the afternoon, she found the house still locked. Fears that Mrs. Lewis had been taken suddenly ill took possession of her mind, and a strong smell of gas about the premises did not tend to quiet her apprehensions. She called Mortimer Young, a next door neighbor, to her assistance, and together they broke in the door. Mrs. Lewis was found in an unconscious condition in a room filled with gas. Her body was lying across a bed, where she had evidently laid down for a nap. A gas chandelier, which supplied the light for the room, had been broken off at the ceiling, while she was sleeping, and the escaping gas filled the room. The unconscious woman was carried to the Young residence, where Dr. Hattery was called. It was not until 9 o'clock that she was restored to consciousness. Dr. Hattery states that had Mrs. Lewis not been found when she was, death would have come in a few moments. Mrs. Lewis's condition is improved today, although she is very ill from her excessive inhalation of gas.

COUNTY SEAT NEWS.

Report of the Visiting Committee of County Institutions.

CANTON, Nov. 6.—The report of the visiting committee of Stark county's charitable and penal institutions has been submitted to Judge McCarty, and is as follows:

THE FAIRMOUNT CHILDREN'S HOME.

This institution we have always found in excellent condition. It is a model of its class and it is a pleasure to inspect it. There have been 237 children in the home the past year, 126 of whom were there at our last visit, October 17. There has been an epidemic of whooping cough without any fatalities. The food supplied to these children is wholesome, well prepared and of greater variety than is supplied in most county institutions. We find the cottages carpeted with bright rag carpets (the handiwork of the children and attendants at the home), the dormitories are scrupulously clean and in perfect order. The beds in the "farm house" were made up by two of the boy inmates as nicely as any woman could do the task. The provision for better water supply in case of fire is being made in accordance with the committee's recommendation. The disposal of sewage from the home has been satisfactorily solved and the method will soon be in operation.

THE COUNTY INFIRMARY.

This institution is as well kept as could be expected when the dilapidated condition of the old main building is taken into consideration. The proud boast of this county is the charitable expenditure of money for the support and relief of the unfortunate poor. But this committee feels that it does not redound to the credit of Stark county to build, furnish and equip a workhouse in palatial style for the comfort and support (called punishment) of criminals and compel the poor but honest and respectable, though unfortunate, to live in a vermin-infested building, unfit for human habitation. Is not a man, old and poor, worthy of as much public consideration as a criminal, who is such by his own volition? We think more. There were 262 inmates in this infirmary when we last visited it. In the women's department of the insane building there were twenty-two inmates, every single one of foreign birth. There is not sufficient help for the care of the sick in the hospital. There is a movement on foot to secure more expert nursing, which we hope may be successful.

The workhouse and city prisons of Canton, Alliance and Massillon we find in their usual condition, clean and well kept. Since our previous visit to the county jail the walls of the cells and corridors have been painted, greatly improving the appearance of the prison, which is clean and neatly kept.

Respectfully,
MARY K. HARTZELL, President.
E. J. MARCH, M. D., Secretary.

HE AIMED THE SHOT.

GUNNER'S MATE PHILLIPS WAS IN CHARGE OF OLYMPIA'S TURRET.

The Shot Slew 150 Men and Wrecked Montojo's Ship—A Single Projectile Traversed the Spanish Vessel from Stern to Stem—The Gun Was Made in Washington.

The hero of Olympia's forward 8-inch guns is Nicholas W. Phillips, official rating "gunner's mate first call U. S.S. Olympia." It was he, who with one shot from the starboard 8-inch gun, destroyed Admiral Montojo's flagship, the Reina Cristina, and the shell killed about one hundred and fifty men. The shot went from stern to bow of the Cristina

Admiral Dewey himself, standing on the bridge directly over the great gun, testifies to the accuracy of the shot. Phillips is short and stocky built and exceeding modest His sterling worth has endeared him to his comrades. He is an expert mechanic and can readily replace or repair any of the delicate mechanism of his well-loved guns.

On the memorable morning of May 1, 1898, he was in charge of the gun crew of the forward turret, in which are the big guns of the Olympia. While the small rapid-fire guns had the honor of being the first used, the big starboard 8-inch gun of the Olympia is held in reverence by the members of the gun crew and the other "jackies" on board.

Because of his modesty Phillips gives credit of firing the shot to Chief Boatswain Pat Murray, one of the men in the turret. It was Phillips's experienced eye and master hand that sighted the big gun.

Gunner's Mate Phillips tells the story of that morning before the battle in these words:

My men were all asleep in the turrets waiting for the word. We had expected a fight in Seebig Bay, but the Spaniards were not there. When the guns on Corredior Island began to boom we knew we had a fight on. It was the greatest relief imaginable. Everybody had been under a tremendous strain for days.

The Spanish ships, although taken by surprise, started out for us. The 'old man' gave us the order to close in on Montojo's flagship. As the Olympia was manoeuvring for position the Spanish Admiral on the Cristina came at us. He expected to ram us, and as soon as her nose was pointed directly at us we let her have one of the 8-inch shells from the starboard forward gun. The shell struck her full in the face, carring away the Admiral's bridge and some of her upper works. We saw the shot was too high, and Admiral Dewey on the bridge, sent word to the turret that the shots must be nearer the water line.

"The Cristina was in trouble and immediately undertook to check her headway in order to get out of range. She made a wide turn and we followed her around. When the stern post was opposite the gun we gave her another shell from the same gun That was the one which put the Cristina out of business. It went from stern to bow.

"The officers' cabins were being used for hospitals, but after that shell went through they didn't need any more hospitals. Funerals were in order. The same shell broke a steam pipe below, and I know none of the engineers or firemen escaped. That one shot we estimated killed nearly 150 persons.

"How did we feel when firing? The same as at target practice. We knew that if we made a failure we were a long way from home and that our chances for returning were slim unless the Spanish fleet was destroyed."

The gun from which the shell was thrown which played such havoc was made in the Washington Navy-Yard.

Out It Went.

In the good old days in Kentucky there was a court composed of three magistrates to try certain cases appealed from a single justice of the peace. The three magistrates were backwoodsmen. A case was being tried one day that was very important and several hours of listening to the reading of depositions and the arguments of counsel, pro and con, and pro and con again, had so nearly entangled the court in a labyrinth of perplexing questions of law and fact that they doubted their ability to blaze their way out. So they whispered to the leading lawyer at the bar, who was sitting by as a spectator, and asked him what he thought ought to be done with the case.

"I think it ought to be thrown out of court," was the prompt and emphatic reply

That settled it.

"Mr. Clerk," said the chief magistrate, "pass up them papers."

The papers, which by now were quite a large bundle, were handed the chief magistrate

"Now, Mr Sheriff," said he, deliberately "open that window."

The Sheriff opened the window and the case was thrown out of court.

The fuss that followed lasted for fifteen years.

Notes on Science and Industry.

Geologists are of the opinion that the vast territory now known as Wyoming once had numerous high water lakes and a climate approximating the semi-tropical, and that the animals who's bones are from time to time coming to light inhabited these lakes and adjoining swamps in myriads. They sank into the mud in dying and their bones were covered with other deposits and became petrified. The large beds are found at points supposed to have been the mouths of great rivers, the animals after death having floated down these rivers to places where they were deposited in these estuaries, thus accounting for the vast deposits which characterize certain localities and which have proved such a study to scientific investigators.

Gather Flower Seeds.

A great many people who live in the country or who spend their summers there are busy at this season getting flower seeds together and labelling them. As fast as the flowers fade and the seed bulbs appear it is time to collect.

LIVE STOCK NOTES.

The fact that cows differ greatly in the quality of their milk is well known Experiments made at the Maine agricultural station, in a test of 50 samples of cream, gave a variation ranging from 17.78 to 23.8.

Sheep are only hardy when they are not exposed to the storms and dampness. Cold, dry weather will do the flock no harm, but they require shelter and dry floors, especially during northeast storms.

One of the great reforms needed is that of curing the evil of selling young calves when only a few days old. They are unfit for food, diminishing the supply of cows and steers, while the milk in its first stages is ropy and unfit to drink.

The English farmer grows turnips for sheep and feeds them on the ground, the sheep eating the turnips without the necessity of the farmer harvesting the crop by hand. No labor is required in feeding the turnips, and the sheep improve the soil.

"Blood will tell." Good blood tells a good story, and bad blood tells a bad story. So far as transmission of qualities goes bad blood is even more apt to tell than good blood, simply because it is more apt to meet congenial blood in the cross.

Early lambs always pay. If the lambs of our common sheep will give as good results as may be noticed every season when the prices are high for early lambs, it should encourage farmers to use the large breeds of mutton sheep for producing early lambs. An Oxford lamb born in March will weigh 60 pounds by May, and may bring as much as $10.

A pint of oats, with all the clover hay she can eat, is an excellent ration for one ewe. If strong and vigorous lambs are desired, the ewes must be fed liberally during the winter. They do not require a large amount of grain, nor should they be made too fat, but they should be kept in good condition. Plenty of hay is better for them than a surfeit of grain.

Every farmer knows how difficult it is to keep the cows dry in the stalls, and to prevent them from soiling the stalls with manure. A farmer who has experimented in that direction advises that the stalls (floors) be only of sufficient length to leave but an inch or two at the rear of the hind feet, where a pit, a foot deep, should be kept filled with fine, dry earth, which should be removed daily. In this manner the cows will be kept clean and all the liquid and solid manure more easily saved and composted.

Many farmers adopt the rule of discarding the matured, heavy sows, in order to fill their places with those that are younger, for breeding purposes. That such a course is a mistake is shown by the experience of one who is authority on hog raising, he having made experiments in the endeavor to discover the cause of diseases in swine. The fact was made apparent that the strongest, healthiest, and most vigorous pigs were produced from parents that were over 3 years old, and that breeding from immature stock is one of the most serious causes of disease.

Milking by Machinery.

Milking by machinery may or may not be a possibility of the future. There are numerous inventions for this purpose, and, as American ingenuity has triumphed over much more intricate problems, it is only fair to assume that it may eventually solve the problem of mechanical milking. The time may come when the farmer can go to the cow stable in his best suit, or send his oldest hopeful attired for his evening call on a neighbor's daughter, and carry on the work of milking in the dainty way shown by our illustration. Lookout for the coming milking machine.

Bolts for Farm Machinery.

A farmer who has 200 dollars and upward invested in farm machinery can afford to buy from three to five dollars worth of bolts of the different sizes such as he wants when one breaks or a nut loses off In taking the machine apart for repairs if the thread of the bolt is battered and spoiled, or the nut is rusted on, and the head of the bolt turns in the wood, the quickest way is to cut the bolt off and replace it by a new one. When very busy in haying or at any other work, and several men are waiting on some machine, it does not pay to spend a half hour or even 15 minutes in trying to get a nut off without damaging the thread. Cut it off, throw it away, put in a new one, and start up. A very good method is to have a little box containing a few of the more important sizes attached to the machine in use. Five dollars' worth may include the following sizes: Three-sixteenths, one-fourth, three-eighths, and one half inch, not taking anything longer than about 10 inches, and buying four of each kind. The first three sizes mentioned are most frequently used in machinery, and one half inch bolt of such length would do fairly well for the average farmer.

Preserving Apples.

Those who did not keep their surplus apples the past season for lack of room, may take a hint from the following. In some sections, where apples are difficult to keep in a cellar, the best method adopted, after repeated experiments, is to pack the apples in boxes and bury the boxes in the ground. Only perfect apples, fully ripe and hand picked from the tree, will answer. Fallen apples or apples that are in the least degree injured or diseased should be excluded, as they will injure those that are sound. The apples should not be picked until they have remained on the trees as long as possible.

THE MODEL COW.

Imagine her standing before you. General style a wedgeshape, nearly the opposite of the beef type, or as the triangle to the parallelogram. Her quiet disposition is deceiving in a measure. For, let a stranger, a stray dog, an unusual noise, or anything startling appear, and her meekness is laid aside; her quiet eye flashes, her head is thrown up from its normal position of a slight decline, her back seems to become rigid, tail slightly elevated, and nostrils extended. She stands on the defensive, or is ready to take the aggressive if any danger threatens her calf. Now her appearance is that which is often called the nervous disposition. Every good dairy cow seems to be made up this way. But this nervous temperament of the cow should not be excited, or she will be short at the pail, and short in cream of what she does give; for the quiet, meditative way should be hers when she is making milk.

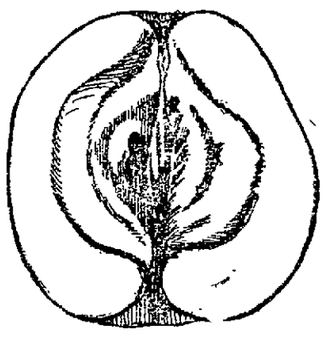
But to her points: We note a rather long, dishing head, large, prominent eyes, set well apart and down her face, large muzzle and mouth, small, feminine ear, with rich, oily secretories inside, small, tapering horn, if she is not of a polled breed, though it may be good sized at butt, wide jaws, throat well cut up, and free from dewlap until close to the brisket, a long ewe neck, sloping shoulders, thin at the top but opening wide down at the forelegs, so that they stand well apart, showing wide chest and plenty of room for heart action. Let us step to the rear and note the "business end" of the cow. The first point that receives attention is the immense udder, extending from away up in front to away up her back parts, the further the better, with plenty of loose skin in her twist I place great importance on the udder being extended well to the front, with four well placed medium sized teats, with two to four rudimentary teats; the skin should be loose and hairless; large, extended milk veins; crooked and large holes.

The back should be straight, but when age begins to tell the spine will sink somewhat by reason of the weight of the stomach and the incessant and large demands on the nerve force which runs through the spinal cord. This is of the greatest importance, for on a good back hang all the law and the profits. It not only has to hold up the large abdomen but is the insulator through which flies the nervous force.

Note the wide hips, and pelvic bones, tail large at its juncture, but tapering down to a fine point below the hocks, with small bulb of oily matter at point, and with a good brush. These may seem of little importance, but each one has its special bearing on the making of a good dairy cow. Large barrel, with ribs well sprung, flat, and space between them, open twist, thin, bony thighs, small feminine legs. Thrown over all a loose hide, golden color, covered with thick hair—the more to the square inch the better—and you have a type of a dairy cow of which, if bred and fed aright, you will have no trouble in getting a good specimen. Then feed those foods that will produce milk instead of beef. No animal will give such quick and renumerative returns as a good dairy cow.

A New Apple, the Hargrove.

One of most noteworthy new fruits reported to the American Pomological Society, at its recent meeting at Washington, D. C., is the Hargrove apple, an illustration of which is presented herewith. The fruit is of medium to large size, nearly globular; skin golden yellow, often with a bright crimson cheek and a few faint stripes at the base; very smooth; calyx protubrant and open, and surrounded with corregations; stock short, in a shallow cavity; flesh crisp, brittle, white, pearmain flavor, sub-acid, and of best quality. It matures from November to January, and it is a very showy and attractive fruit The tree is a vigorous grower and a prolific bearer. It originated in Haywood Co., N. C., near the headwaters of Jonathan Creek.



SECTION OF THE HARGROVE APPLE.

About Beets.

Professor Tracy, before the Michigan Horticultural Society, mentions some characteristics of the ordinary vegetable grown in every garden, that are often lost sight of or not considered at all. Speaking of beets, he says that color should hold good while cooking—should be "fast," and, again, the tops should be small and compact. The portion just below the base of the leaves is harder, rank flavored, and deficient in sugar. The French and German sugar makers always cut off this portion, because it impairs the quality of the sugar.

Under proper management either the wool or the increase should pay for keeping while the other should be profit, but sheep cannot grow wool or furnish nutritious milk to lambs if they have only sufficient food to maintain animal life; it requires more food during winter when the animals have no shelter than when they are well protected.

Plenty of shade trees about the farmhouse and the home grounds are essential both to beauty and comfort. In summer they give shelter from the burning sun and in winter from the cutting winds. They should, however, not be too densely grouped close about the house, as then they may cause dampness. Plant judiciously, but do not fail to plant; for anything is better than bare grounds. If you chance to get the trees in too thickly, a part may be easily removed when they have grown larger, and so shown that they are not needed.

HARING-ECCLESTON.

Marriage Announcement of a Former Massillonian.

Cards were received in town this morning announcing the marriage of Harry A. Haring, son of J C. Haring, to Miss Inez M. Eccleston, at her home in Cleveland. Besides the immediate families there were present only a few friends. Mr. and Mrs. Haring went at once to their new home on Grandview avenue, Cedar Heights, Cleveland. Miss Eccleston graduated from the Cleveland college for women in June, 1898, and last year was instructor of mathematics in that institution. Mr. Haring is a graduate of Western Reserve University, being also a member of the class of 1898, and is now secretary of the university.

THE ROCK-A-BYE BOAT.

There's a boat that leaves at half-past six
From the busy port of Play,
And it reaches the haven of Slumberland
Before the close of day.

It carries the tiniest passengers,
And it rocks so gently, too!
When the wee ones nestle in their berths
And the boat man begins to row!

The whistle sounds so low and sweet
(Like a mother's lullaby)
That the travelers smile and close their eyes,
To dream of angels nigh.

Sometimes the travelers tarry too long
In the busy port of Play,
And the anxious boatman coaxes and calls,
And grieves at their delay.

But at last they come to the rocking boat,
Which bears them down the stream,
And drifts them to the Slumberland,
To rest and sleep and dream.

The name of the boat is Rock-a-Bye,
And it's guided by mother's hand,
For she is the patient mother dear,
Who takes you to Slumberland.

Now what is the fare a traveler pays
On a Rock-a-bye boat like this?
Why, the poorest child can afford the price,
For it's only a good night kiss
—Eme ine Goodnow.

MARTHA'S JOY TEARS.

"John," said Mrs. Esmond, as she passed her husband his second cup of coffee, "I need the dress badly, and I don't see how I can get along without it."

"But, Martha, money's so awfully tight now I don't like to spare any till I pay off the men. If there's any left I—I—guess you can have ten dollars or so, if that'll do you!"

"I knew that's jus how 't would be," said Mrs. Esmond bitterly to herself. "It's been so for years," and the unbidden tears rolled down her cheeks and fell on the toil-worn hands. "I must have the dress, for Tom's coming home Christmas, and he must see his mother dressed up a bit. It's been five years since he went to Australia."

"Women are queer creeturs," soliloquized John Esmond, as he lifted his hoe to his shoulder and started for the potato field. "They 're so unreasonable, and if they want a thing they want it awful—an' there's nothing but they must have it. Maybe I had ought to spare enough for the dress, seeing her heart's so set on it; but I dun o. I'll see."

Meantime the tired housewife went about her work with a burden not only on her shoulders, but a heavier one on her heart.

"'T wasn't so when we were first married," she thought, "but I'll have the dress somehow; I must have it for Tom's sake."

That afternoon she visited the hotel on the hill and for weeks after her work seemed never done.

"'Pears to me you're always to work lately" said John curiously one night.

"Have I ever been idle?" replied Martha quietly.

"No; but you never used to work so stiddy before as I know of and you're getting real peaked. And by the way, Martha, I paid the men to-day, and it took all the spare cash I had. Sorry but I guess you'll have to wait for the dress till I sell the wood."

"You might give me a check," said Mrs. Esmond, evasively.

Her husband looked horrified.

"That would never do, Martha. We must save something for a rainy day."

"Your bank account is not small, John, and we'll never live to spend it all."

"Nobody c'n tell what'll happen, Martha, so 't aint best to be too extravagant. Seems to me your dresses are good 'nough—and rainy days are sure to come to all sooner or later."

"It seems to me all my days are rainy," and Mrs Esmond began to knit more vigorously than ever.

"Why, what do you mean, Martha; you aint complaining, are you?"

"No; John, why should I?"

"Martha ain't feelin' well, I guess," said her husband to himself as Mrs. Esmond left the room. "She ain't been feelin' just right for a long spell. But I guess 't will pass off now the heft of the fall's work's over and the men gone" and picking up the weekly paper, wife and trouble were soon forgotten.

It was the first week of October and the dainty new dress earned by working for the hotel people, lay on the bed in the spare room.

"I'll not tell him," thought Mrs. Esmond. "He won't like it because I've done this extra work: but I had to have the dress, and it's so pretty," and with loving hands she smoothed the shining folds. "Had John given it to me, how much more I should enjoy it," she thought.

"I'm glad Mary's coming home next week. I'm so tired. Seems as if I can never get rested. She'll find poor old mother all tired out and not much company."

A few mornings later when Mr. Esmond came in to breakfast, he found his wife lying on the dining-room lounge.

"Why, Martha, what's the matter; ain't breakfast ready?"

"Not quite, John. I felt so dizzy I had to lie down. I think I'll feel better soon, but you'll have to dish up the breakfast. You'll find the potatoes on the back of the stove."

"Isn't there anything I c'n do, Martha. Can't I get you a little toast an' tea or something?"

"No; John, don't mind about me, go and eat your breakfast."

Hour by hour Martha grew steadily worse, until her husband in his alarm sent for a neighbor and the doctor.

"It's a sick woman," said the doctor tersely, as he followed the anxious husband to the kitchen. "She will need the best of care."

"Mary is coming to-morrow," faltered Mr. Esmond, as he sat down heavily in a straight back chair, "and she'll be the best medicine mother can have."

"We'll have courage," said the doctor, kindly, seeing the dazed look on the farmer's face. "Get Mrs Hobart to remain with you till your daughter comes—she's an excellent nurse," and the busy doctor hurriedly left the room.

"Father," said Mary one day, "why does mother in her delirium continually talk of her pretty new dress?"

Clumsily, but honestly, Mr Esmond told of his wife's desire for the new dress, and his refusal to get it for her.

"Oh, father, how could you! Poor, dear mother!"

"Mary, don't! I can't stand it I didn't know how she really felt about it, and I thought her dresses were good 'nough—I was out for Tom. And 't wasn't because I'm really mean, Mary; don't think that. I didn't understand! I guess men never understand these things. But—but—daughter, if mother'll only get well, she'll find I've turned over a new leaf. She'll never again have to ask twice for what she needs and she'll have something to enjoy before one of us is dead," and the strong man bowed his head in his hands and his frame shook.

"There, there, father, no one is perfect and we must often learn by experience," and tenderly kissing his gray hair Mary returned to her mother's room.

The long days slipped away, though slowly, and 't was a happy morning for Mary and her father when Mrs. Esmond awoke and said weakly, "How long I've slept! Isn't it long past breakfast time?"

"Never mind, mother dear, I'll see to that. Just go to sleep again," said Mary, gently. And with a sigh of contentment the mother obeyed like a little child.

"She is out of danger," said the doctor, an hour later, "but you must keep her quiet and free from worry. She'll be about by Christmas time, but she must be kept from doing any hard work for months to come."

Christmas morning, which was also mother's birthday, dawned on a happy family at the Esmond homestead.

For the first time since that day in September, Mrs. Esmond was seated in her accustomed place in the cozy sitting-room with her husband and children about her.

"I have much to be thankful for to-day," she said, "and——"

"Not so much as I have, Martha," and tears stood in her husband's eyes. "I never realized how mean I was gettin', but I've turned over a new leaf. What pleasure would my money 've given me had you——"

Awkwardly he took his wife's frail hand in both his own. Then kissing her abruptly, he left the room.

"Why, children, see what your father has given me!" exclaimed Mrs. Esmond, holding a check before them. "Father put this into my hand just now."

"Poor, dear father," murmured Mary, tenderly.

"Dear old dad!" cried Tom,, as he used to do when a boy.

"Come, Tom, mother needs some one to brush away her joy tears. We'll send father to her," and the children quietly left the room.—Adelbert F. Caldwell.

Army Officers at Fifteen.

"From the American point of view the insurgent leaders over in the Philippines are all a pack of boys," said Louis Rodriguez, the Filipino, now residing in New Orleans, who has applied for the position of stenographer on Gen. Otis's staff. "It may surprise you to know that the average age is between fifteen and eighteen. I know nearly all of them personally, and many of them are the sons of our old friends and neighbors, so I am not at all likely to be mistaken. There is hardly a native officer in Aguinaldo's whole command who has reached thirty, very few who are over twenty-five. I know positively that some of the colonels and minor officers are boys between fifteen and sixteen.

"It should be borne in mind, however, that young people mature much more rapidly in that tropical climate than they do in this country. There fifteen is regarded as an age of discretion and responsibility, and not a few marry even younger. Severe, long-continued exertion is impossible in the latitude of Manila, and a man of thirty-five ought to be provided against future want. To that end he has to begin early. Aguinaldo chose boys for his officers because he was shrewd enough to appreciate the military value of the enthusiasm of youth."—New Orleans Times-Democrat.

Burglary With Sponge and Water.

When a burglar wants to break into a Peruvian house he takes a sponge and a bucket of water and moistens the walls, which are covered with only a thin coating of mud and easily dissolve upon the application of moisture. Then when the mud is removed he takes a sharp knife and cuts the strips of split bamboo which serve as a substitute for laths. That easy little operation produces a hole in the wall large enough for a man to crawl through, and can be performed so silently that people sleeping in the house will not be awakened. Not long ago the residence of the cable manager at Barranca was entered in this way. The thieves frightened the family, but were discovered before they had seized much booty.—Chicago Record.

Farmers' Conveyances.

Nobody has a better right than a farmer to drive for pleasure, or into town for business, in a well painted vehicle, brightly varnished; yet few of them do so. "You can always tell a farmer by the muddy old rig he rides in," is a common remark not wholly without warrant of truth. However good the horses he drives, and many farmers own spirited, beautiful, and valuable ones, the wagon or carriage they draw is usually "a sight." This is not because the farmer never owns a good carriage or buggy, but because he does not take proper care of it. As a young man, perhaps, he kept a bright buggy, washing it occasionally with infinite labor, removing the dust every time he went to visit or drove with his "best girl." But after marriage all this involved too much work. He had "no time for it." And he still holds the opinion that clean, showy turnouts are too costly and troublesome for farmers. The truth is, few ever learn how to care for and preserve a nicely painted carriage or wagon. To wash one speedily, thoroughly, and without scratching it, is an art that must be learned; to cover one and keep off dust, only a common sense precaution that need take time not labor.

A top-carriage of the best material and workmanship has three substances which, without care, will soon deteriorate; paint coated with varnish, a leather top, linings, and upholstery, usually of cloth. With watchfulness, and a fresh application of varnish whenever needed, the paint will rarely or never require renewing, and the varnish only will require care. It should never be exposed to the odors and heated ammoniacal gases of horse stables. Nothing more quickly deadens the transparency and brilliancy of even the best varnishes. To wash a carriage quickly and safely requires an abundance of clean water and a spot where the vehicle may stand to drain freely. Of course a hose gives the largest and easiest supply of water, but it must not be allowed to dash at full head, or the varnish will be scratched. A watering-pot with a hose nozzle is the next best thing. Every cushion, carpet, and rug must be shaken and dusted before washing. All signs of mud and dust should be removed from the body and top, inside and outside, before the gear is touched. This must be wetted meantime, as it is usually the dirtiest, and will be more easily cleansed after soaking. Before washing the wheels, every spring, brace, axle, and reach should be washed and the body carefully wiped dry with a soft, moistened chamois skin. Dipping the sponge into the water (for a sponge and wagon-jack are indispensable to a quick wash), it must be applied to the rim as it slowly turns toward the operator, to prevent spattering the body, keeping the pail just out of the reach of the moving tire. This catches much of the waste water, making it serve a second time, and invites frequent plunges of the sponge. Having completed the outer side of the rim, the inner side is next in order, and then the spokes and hub, first outside or from the body, and afterward next to it. Each wheel is thus washed and rinsed systematically and rapidly. For removing dry road dust a soft feather duster is convenient.

No dust can settle on the vehicle when housed if it is supplied with a soft cotton cover. For this canton flannel excels, but heavy, unbleached muslin will do. A canopy may be made under which it is easy to back the carriage. A frame of laths just the size of the carriage top is covered and suspended two inches above it. To this the curtains are attached by buttons. The back and sides may be sewed in one piece. The front curtains should be ample in width to lap over the side curtains and exclude dust. Near the outer edge a dozen small rings should be sewed to the canvas. Through these a cord must be passed and fastened at the bottom. Directly above these rings two small pulleys attached to the ceiling will enable a person to instantly raise or lower this cover by the use of the cord. A cover is imperative, not only to catch the dust but also for protection against fading and rotting the linings and upholstery. The leather top should be gently rubbed over every three months with the purest olive or castor oil, to preserve its pliancy and prevent shrinkage. The care of a carriage described at length may lead some to still believe it laborious, but the terrors of the work and time required for its performance will disappear with practice and skill.—Hollister Sage.

Poultry Rearing Advice.

During the next three months there will be hundreds of chicks brought into existence on the Pacific coast. But this is only the beginning, and if you do not want them to shuffle off this mortal coil in less time than it took them to shuffle on, eternal vigilance is the price you must pay.

After you have attended to such essentials as clean water, clean quarters and proper ventilation, comes the most important matter of food, and in this matter experience makes me almost ready to declare that there is little use in trying to be guided by what any one else has fed.

"Feed hard boiled eggs for the first two or three days," says one writer. "The old idea that hard boiled eggs are necessary for young chicks is out of date," says another. "Feed only cooked food," says a third. "Broken rice and cracked wheat are excellent," says a fourth; and doubtless each of these writers has succeeded with what he recommends. Therefore, if you try cooked wheat, which the writer thinks most excellent, and it does not agree with your flock, lose no time in trying broken rice or rolled oats. But whatever you give or don't give, make cooked vegetables, green food of some sort, cooked meat, and occasionally a little raw meat part of the diet. Raw meat once a week, cooked meat twice, will be sufficient. Give only a little at a time.

There is another thing that must be taken care of with brooder chicks, and that is exercise. Strew their dry food among the clean sand and make them scratch for it. Like bipeds, to whom a larger growth of brain is attributed, they can be very industrious when they are hungry, and like some of the aforesaid bipeds they will be so only when they are hungry.—Poultry Monthly.

Little Pimples Turn to Cancer.

Cancer often results from an impurity in the blood, inherited from generations back. Few people are entirely free from some taint in the blood, and it is impossible to tell when it will break out in the form of dreaded Cancer. What has appeared to be a mere pimple or scratch has developed into the most malignant Cancer.

"I had a severe Cancer which was at first only a few blotches, that I thought would soon pass away. I was treated by several able physicians, but in spite of their efforts the Cancer spread until my condition became alarming. After many months of treatment and growing steadily worse, I decided to try S. S. S. which was so strongly recommended. The first bottle produced an improvement. I continued the medicine, and in four months the last little scab dropped off. Ten years have elapsed, and not a sign of the disease has returned."
R. F. WILLIAMS,
Gillsburg, Miss.

It is dangerous to experiment with Cancer. The disease is beyond the skill of physicians. S. S. S. is the only cure, because it is the only remedy which goes deep enough to reach Cancer.

Chairman Dick's Estimate from Late Reports

LEGISLATURE REPUBLICAN.

Give the Democrats all Doubtful Members and Republicans Will Have Thirty Majority on Joint Ballot—Large Vote for Jones in the Four Leading Counties.

[By Associated Press to The Independent.]

Columbus, Nov. 8—The Democratic state committee has no additional figures today. McLean is expected to make a statement soon as to the causes of the result Nash has received many congratulations, especially over the victory in his own county. Chairman Dick now claims 59,000 to 60,000 for Nash and the rest of the ticket and a large majority in the legislature. The total vote will be about 920,000. Jones's vote in Hamilton, Cuyahoga, Lucas and Franklin will be about 45,000. The Senate is estimated at 21 Republicans, 9 Democrats and 1 doubtful. The House stands 64 Republicans, 38 Democrats and 7 doubtful.

Cleveland—The entire Republican county and legislative ticket is elected, by pluralities ranging from 8,000 to 15,000 Caldwell for lieutenant governor has a plurality of over 10,000.

Toledo—Full returns from this city give Nash 7,515; McLean, 6,051; Jones, 9,785 The Republican state ticket, except governor, has a plurality. Jones's vote in the remainder of the county will reduce his plurality below 2,000.

Youngstown—Mahoning county complete, unofficial, Nash, 6,200; McLean, 4,736 Jones, 1,259.

Mansfield—McLean's plurality in Richland county is 715.

KENTUCKY SAFE.

Republican Chairman Sure of Ten Thousand Plurality.

Louisville, Nov. 8—[By Asoociated Press]—Chairman Long, of the Republican committee, said at 1 p. m: "We have received official returns from two-thirds of the counties, which, with a conservative estimate from the missing counties give Taylor a plurality of from 8,000 to 10,000. Reports yet to come will undoubtedly increase the Republican plurality."

KENTUCKY IN DOUBT.

Frankfort, Ky., Nov. 8—[By Associated Press]—Ex-senator Blackburn today says: The Republicans must carry Jefferson county by 4,500 to win. Our information is that they have not done this. The Democratic majority is small but safe Democrats have a majority in both houses of the legislature and a majority on joint ballot of 12 and probably more."

IN HAMILTON COUNTY.

Cincinnati, Nov. 8.—[By Associated Press] — Complete unofficial vote of Hamilton county gives Nash 34,805, McLean 35,979, Jones 11,950. McLean's plurality, 1,174; Caldwell Republican for lieutenant governor, plurality 939, with remainder of Republican state ticket about the same.

GAINS IN NEW YORK.

Albany, Nov. 8—[By Associated Press]—Republican gains in assemblymen and in municipal officers are shown by the returns. Albany, Rochester and Troy, usually Democratic, were carried in whole or in part by the Republicans.

JONES CARRIES CLEVELAND.

Cleveland, Nov. 8—[By Associated Press]—Complete unofficial returns from Cuyahoga county are Jones, 36,196; Nash, 21,369 McLean, 7,129 Jones's plurality, 14,827 his majority over both, 7,398

The Plurality Growing.

Philadelphia, Nov 8.—[By Associated Press]—The Republican plurality in the state is estimated at from 130,000 to 160,000

FROM NEARBY TOWNS

NEWMAN NEWS

Newman, Nov. 9.—John Doubledee lost a valuable cow last week by paris green being left carelessly by some one in the field, where it was pastured.

John Clapper is going to have a sale and move to the old homestead near the Dublin school house.

Walter Abraham Doubledee and Ida Geis were married last Saturday evening by the Rev. James Lister. The young couple have taken up their residence in Newman.

August Peters lost one of his valuable horses last week. This makes four of his horses that have died within five years.

J. D. Evans and son have disposed of their coal interests in Indiana and are again residents of Newman.

Hallowe'en was duly observed by our young people, but no real damage was done, and of course the usual amount of fun was enjoyed by the youngsters.

Matthias Daler, aged 72 years, died at his home here on Friday of paralysis. The funeral took place at 2 o'clock Sunday afternoon, the remains being interred in the Canal Fulton cemetery. The deceased had accompanied his wife to Massillon on Tuesday, being in his usual good health, and it was on his return home that he received the first stroke. He was a highly respected citizen, his word being his bond with everyone. He had lived on his farm for over fifty years He leaves a widow and three married daughters. The funeral services were conducted by the Rev. Mr. Miller, of the Newman's Creek U. B. chapel, where he had been a lifelong member.

Election at this place passed off in a quiet and friendly manner, no loud demonstration being heard. There were 116 votes cast, one of which was a blank and counting for but two candidates. Nash received 50, McLean 32 and Golden-Rule-Pump-Sucker Jones 28, 20 of which came from the Republican party. Harvey Smith held his good run up to the former standard, receiving 90 votes, his opponent 22. Day made a good showing, and Robert A. Pollock led all the legislative candidates by receiving 73 votes. Taking it all, in all we feel that our precinct has done well in the battle of ballots for this year, and we congratulate the Republican victory of 1899.

CHURCH DEDICATED.

Strasburg, Nov. 9—The dedication of the new German Evangelical St. John's church took place here, as previously announced, last Sunday. The attendance, both lay and clerical, was large and the interest manifested in the ceremonies and exercises was intense. There was a large attendance of people from Massillon, Canal Dover, New Philadelphia, Bolivar, Dundee and other neighboring towns, as well as from the surrounding country. At an early hour the streets were full of conveyances and people on foot, wending their way to the new church. The Massillonians came on an excursion train of five well filled coaches, bringing about 300 people. Among the more prominent persons from Massillon we noticed Mayor Wise, T. Schott and J. D. Wetter and wife. The crowd was so large that not one-half of them could get into the church. The following named ministers of the German Evangelical church were present: The Revs. G. L Heck, of the local congregation, J. J. Bodmer, W. Brucker, George Deckinger, F. Krafft, Karl Nagel, F. Buesser, J. E 'Digel, C. Schimmel and D. Helmcamp. The choir of the local congregation, together with the choirs from Wooster, Massillon and Bolivar, lent their aid to enrich the exercises with music and singing. Everything passed off to the best satisfaction of all concerned and our congregation is justly proud of the success of the exercises as well as of their beautiful church, which gives them a fine place of worship and is an ornament to our town All was done that was possible to entertain and make it pleasant for the visitors and our people feel thankful for the aid rendered by them as well as greatly pleased with the decorous and orderly conduct of all the people who were present. The occasion was further honored by sermons delivered on Monday night by the Revs. O. Rousch and F. Opperman, of Cleveland, who were both pastors of the Strasburg congregation.

Frederick Haas, an aged farmer living near here, had his right leg broken by a kick from a vicious steer, last Sunday evening, while feeding his cattle. It is the second time that he has had the same leg broken

There are now two applications before our council for electric street railway franchises on our streets for the line to fill up the gap between Massillon and Canal Dover.

William Huber, who, a year ago, moved to New Philadelphia in search of a better place to pursue his trade as a barber, has returned to Strasburg, and again occupies his former shop.

WILMOT NEWS.

Wilmot, Nov. 8.—George Sprankle is doing carpenter work for Andrew Axne in Beach City.

Paul Figar has moved to the Grenzer farm, south of town.

W. S. Putman has been in the northwest part of the state the past week.

Since our last, John Harbaugh and Ben Welden, former residents of this place, have died. The former at Salina, and the latter at Burton City. Both were ex-soldiers of the late civil war.

HOW THE PRESIDENT VOTED.

Walked to Polls, After Exchanging Greetings, and Cast His Ballot.

Canton, O., Nov. 8.—Respecting the President's desire for simplicity in exercising the right of franchise Cantonians organized no demonstration when he came here to vote, but when the train steamed in there were on the station platform nearly all the members of the reception committee of the 1896 campaign, scores of old neighbors and close friends together with an immense crowd of old citizens. Lusty cheering began as the train appeared and continued until the party in carriages disappeared. The party went direct to the Barber home to be the guests of Mrs. McKinley's sister

As soon as greetings were exchanged and Mrs. McKinley comfortably established the president started for his polling place, B of the First ward. At the Barber steps he encountered an impromptu reception, a large crowd having gathered to geet him.

Shaking hands as he passed, the president walked to the polling place seven blocks away. Here there were more greetings exchanged and he was handed ballot 101. He was back of the booth curtain only an instant and then handed his ballot to the judge.

Massachusetts Went Republican.

Boston, Nov. 8.—The Republicans carried Massachusetts today by 65,000 votes, electing W. Murray Crane governor. The entire Republican state ticket was elected by practically the same plurality.

Republicans Carried New Jersey.

Trenton, Nov. 8.—The returns indicated that the Republicans have carried the state by about 20,000 plurality, although there was no direct vote on a state ticket. The Republicans will control both houses of the legislature by good working majorities, and will have an increased representation in the house of assembly.

San Peancisco, Nov. 8.—Hongkong papers of Oct. 5. received by the Doric, give details of a great fire in Canton at midnight on the 2d, by which over 50 persons lost their lives.

Woman Bicyclist Killed.

New York, Nov. 8.—The woman bicyclist who was killed by striking a heavy truck on Fifth avenue was identified as Clara Person, a domestic.

DORCHESTER, MASS.

Winter in the South.

The season approaches when one's thoughts turn toward a place where the inconveniences of a Northern winter may be escaped. No section of this country offers such ideal spots as the Gulf Coast on the line of the Louisville & Nashville Railroad between Mobile and New Orleans. It possesses a mild climate, pure air, even temperature and facilities for hunting and fishing enjoyed by no other section. Accommodations for visitors are first class, and can be secured at moderate prices. The L. & N. R. R is the only line by which it can be reached in through cars from Northern cities. Through car schedules to all points in Florida by this line are also perfect. Write for folders, etc., to Jackson Smith, D. P. A., Cincinnati, O.

To Los Angeles and Southern California.

Every Friday night, at 10:35 p. m., a through tourist car for Los Angeles and Southern California, leaves the Chicago, Milwaukee & St. Paul Railway Union Passenger Station, Chicago, via Omaha, Colorado Springs and Salt Lake City, for all points in Colorado, Utah, Nevada and California.

In addition to the regular Pullman porter, each car is accompanied by an intelligent, competent and courteous "courier," who will attend to the wants of passengers en route This is an entirely new feature of tourist car service, and will be appreciated by families or by ladies traveling alone. Particular attention is paid to the care of children, who usually get weary on a long journey.

These tourist cars are sleeping cars supplied with all the accessories necessary to make the journey comfortable and pleasant, and the berth rate (each berth will accommodate two persons) is only $6 00 from Chicago to California. Ask the nearest ticket agent for a tourist car folder, or address E. G. Hayden, Traveling Passenger Agent, 135 The Arcade, Cleveland, O

"A Heart as Sturdy as an Oak."

But what about the blood which the heart must pump at the rate of 70 times a minute? If the heart is to be sturdy and the nerves strong this blood must be rich and pure Hood's Sarsaparilla makes sturdy hearts because it makes good blood It gives to men and women strength, confidence, courage and endurance.

Hood's Pills are non irritating and the only cathartic to take with Hood's Sarsaparilla.

Give the Children a Drink

called Grain-O. It is a delicious, appetizing, nourishing food drink to take in place of coffee Sold by all grocers and liked by all who have used it because when properly prepared it tastes like the finest coffee, but is free from all injurious properties. Grain-O aids digestion and strengthens the nerves. It is not a stimulant, but a health builder, and children, as well as adults, can drink it with great benefit. Costs about ¼ as much as coffee. 15 and 25c

For over fifty years

Deafness Cannotbe Cured

by local applications, as they cannot reach the diseased portion of the ear. There is only one way to cure deafness, and that is by constitutional remedies. Deafness is caused by an inflamed condition of the mucous lining of the Eustachian Tube When this tube gets inflamed you have a rumbling sound or imperfect hearing, and when it is entirely closed deafness is the result, and unless the inflammation can be taken out and this tube restored to its normal condition, hearing will be destroyed forever; nine cases out of ten are caused by catarrh, which is nothing but an inflamed condition of the mucous surfaces.

We will give One Hundred Dollars for any case of deafness (caused by catarrh) that can not be cured by Hall's Catarrh Cure. Send for circulars, free.
